9. Description

The church is of frame construction, with cinderblock foundation; it is 58' long and 28' wide. It has a red tin roof, and a 1950s addition. The steeple is truncated; the three windows on either side facade have rounded arches; there is a red brick chimney to one side.

The schoolhouse is a rectangular frame building, sited to the north of the church building. There is a cemetery and an outhouse.

10. Significance

Pleasant View Church is important as a small church for the rural black population of the County. It was constructed during the period in which the Methodist Church was rapidly expanding, as was the population in this area. Although land for the church was purchased in 1868, the church itself was not constructed for 20 years. It was part of the Washington Grove Circuit of the Washington Negro Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and like other small congregations, the members of the Pleasant View Church shared a minister with several other M.E. churches.

In 1968, members of the Pleasant View Church merged with nearby small Methodist congregations to form the Fairhaven Methodist Church, and abandoned possession (but not legal ownership) of this building.

The schoolhouse began life on the other side of the Darnestown Road about 1875, as a school for white children in the area. In 1901-2 it was moved next to the church to be used as the colored school. Two rooms were added in the 1940s, just before Quince Orchard, Tobytown, and Seneca Colored Schools were consolidated

This three bay by four bay, one and a half story rectangular church sits on a hill facing northeast.

Built on fieldstone reinforced by poured concrete, the church has white novelty siding with dark green trim. There is a three tiered tower on the north elevation. The bottom tier is the largest and the top tier is the smallest. A skirt roof separates the middle tier from the upper and lower tiers. Three poured concrete steps lead up to the double wooden doors which are set into the base of the tower. These doors are flanked by one over one double hung lancet stained glass windows. The center section of the tower has a louvered round window. The top section has louvered square windows. The corners of the tower rise up slightly above the walls of the tower. No roof is visible. On the southeast elevation five poured concrete steps lead to a hollow core wooden door. A shed roof supported by two turned posts shields the stairway leading to the modern hollow core wooden basement door on the southeast elevation. There is a frame one bay by two bay addition with a half hipped roof on the southeast elevation.

There are two over two double hung stained glass lancet windows. On the southwest elevation there are two one over one double hung stained glass lancet windows. The northwest and southeast sides of the southwest elevation each have one six over six double hung window.

The church has a gable roof with red pressed metal covering. There is a northwest interior brick stone chimney.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

During the late nineteenth and early twentieth century Montgomery County witnessed a land boom, and rapid population expansion. As the population expanded so did the churches. The Methodist Church was perhaps the most rapidly expanding church of this period. From 1870 until 1910 two-thirds of all the new congregations established in Montgomery County were Methodist.¹ Pleasant View was one of the Methodist-Episcopal Churches to be established during this period.

The property on which this church was built was purchased, on April 21, 1868, by Thomas Neverson, George W. Johnson, and Charles Beander. They bought the land from Aquilla and Elizabeth Fisher.² The Pleasant View Church, however, was not built until 1888. The construction work was done by the Howard Brothers Company.³

This church, also known as the Quince Orchard Methodist Episcopal church, was part of the Washington Grove Circuit of the Washington Negro Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Like other small congregations, the members of the Pleasant View Church shared a minister with several other M.E. churches. They first shared a minister with the Scotland Church in 1929. Later they shared with the Emory Grove and Linden Churches.

Because of the poor condition of the church building, the congregation extensively renovated it in the 1950s. In 1968 the members of the Pleasant View Church, along with the congregations of the Hunting Hill and McDonald Chapel Methodist Episcopal Churches, merged with the newly formed Fairhaven Methodist Church. Although they held their last service on September 29, 1968, the members of the Pleasant View Church never gave up legal ownership of the Church. Faith healing services are now held in the old church.

The frame one-room schoolhouse began life on the other side of the Darnestown Road about 1875, as a school for white children in the area. In 1901-2 the building was moved next to the church to be used as the colored school. Two rooms were added in the early 1940s, just before Quince Orchard, Tobytown, and Seneca Colored Schools were consolidated.

ATTEST:

 Kathleen A. Freedman, Acting Secretary of the County Council for Montgomery County, Maryland

- Associated for more than 100 years with the Magruder family, prominent in the early history of the State and County.
- Farm cultivated as early as 1734, reclaimed in the mid-1800's by Otho Magruder, an early proponent of agricultural innovation in the County.

24/13 Pleasant View Church #2 (p. 10)

- 19th Century vernacular rural black church with unusual truncated steeple.
- The three acre parcel includes a cemetery, privy and the Quince Orchard Negro Schoolhouse built c. 1875. The entire parcel should be retained as the environmental setting.

24/21 Pleasant Hills (p. 11)

- Built circa 1763--Fine example of Georgian brick construction and one of the oldest brick homes in the County.
- Originally associated with the Gassaway family early settlers in the Darnestown area of the county.
- To preserve the integrity of this site any development that occurs on the property should be effectively clustered away from the main house.

29/3 Glen Store and Post Office (p. 12)

- Built circa 1899--Good example of a rural, turn-of-the-century combined residential/ commercial structure.
- Rural Victorian design which is the last remnant of the historic Glen community.
- The Approved and Adopted Master Plan for the Potomac Subregion recommends improvement of South Glen Road to a primary street. If and when the road is widened, this amendment recommends the center line be shifted to the east in the vicinity of the store so the improvement does not adversely affect the store and the historic relationship of the site to the roadway can be retained.

29/16 Locust Grove I (Magruder House) (p. 13)

- Built circa 1773--Original Federal style brick residence; remodeled circa 1895 in the Victorian style.
- Associated with Samuel Wade Magruder, a patriot in the American Revolution and one of the "founding fathers" of Montgomery County.
- The boyhood home of William Wurt, well-known author and lawyer who served as the Attorney General of the United States from 1817 to 1829 under the presidencies of James Monroe and John Quincy Adams.
