The Littlefield house is significant as an example of vernacular architecture typical of that constructed in Montgomery County from the mid-nineteenth through the early twentieth centuries. It is part of the remnants of a small rural settlement in Layhill, now surrounded by modern sub-divisions. The house was probably built by Francis A. Littlefield about 1887.¹ The house sat on 18 3/4 acres of part of a tract of land referred to as "Resurvey on part of Hermitage" which Littlefield purchased in November of 1886 from James and Annie Soper.²

In January of 1898, Littlefield sold the house to Charles Parker for $200.³ Charles died about 1918, indebted to Eva Turner. Because of this debt, Charles' son, Thomas C. Parker, and others were forced to sell the house. It was purchased for $3500 by William E. Atwood.⁴ William kept the property about a year and a half, selling it to Arthur and Mamie Smith in November of 1919.⁵ The house remained in the Smith family until October of 1944 when it was sold to the present owners, Leonard and Katherine A'Hearn.⁶

¹The date given is based on the date that the land was purchased and the fact that it appears on the 1894 map as the home of Francis Littlefield, while nothing appears on the map of 1878 on this site.

APPENDIX A

SITES NOT RECOMMENDED FOR REGULATION UNDER THE HISTORIC PRESERVATION ORDINANCE CHAPTER 24A OF THE MONTGOMERY COUNTY CODE

The following sites have been reviewed by the Montgomery County Historic Preservation Commission and were found not to merit designation of the Master Plan for Historic Preservation. If not included in the Master Plan, these resources may be removed from the Locational Atlas and Index of Historic Sites in Montgomery County. If removed from the Locational Atlas, the sites will no longer be governed by the Moratorium on Alteration and Demolition, Section 24A-10 of the County's Historic Preservation Ordinance. The sites will, however, remain on the Maryland Historical Trust's Inventory.

The following sites were found by the Preservation Commission to be too greatly altered from the period of their architectural or historical significance or not to meet Ordinance criteria for designation.

The VanHorn/Atwood house is significant as an example of vernacular architecture typical of that constructed in Montgomery County from the mid-nineteenth through the early twentieth centuries. It is part of all that remains of a small rural settlement at Layhill, now surrounded by growing suburban development. This house was probably built by William R. VanHorn, a government employee, about 1889.¹ The house sat on 4.25 acres of a tract of land referred to as "Resurvey on part of Hermitage." VanHorn had purchased the land in September of 1888 from Basil Mullican for $212.50.²

In October of 1891, William and his wife, Clara, sold the house to William M. Atwood and his wife, Eva, for $1500.³ The Montgomery County maps of 1894 and 1918 indicate that the Atwoods ran a store of some type at the house (the 1878 county map also indicates that Jacob Kemp ran a store on or very near to this site). The Atwoods owned the house for many years, finally selling it in 1941 to the present owners, Svend and Edith Andersen.⁴

¹Date is based on the date that the land was purchased and the price that was paid for it (compared to the price that it was sold for).
